#22*Teacher's Guide*SCRIPT: INTRODUCTIONS

Max: This is Izabela. She's our office manager here in London. Izabela, this is Maria from the Madrid office. Can you show her around, please?

Izabela: Of course, no problem. Nice to meet you, Maria.

Maria: Nice to meet you too, Bella.

Max: See you later.

Izabela: Which department do you work in?

Maria: The sales department.

Izabela: So who's your manager?

Maria: Monica Lopez. She's the regional sales director for Southern Europe, and I'm a sales manager for Spain.

Izabela: Oh yes, I know Monica. She often visits this office.

Maria: Right.

Izabela: Do you travel for work a lot?

Maria: Yes, I do. I visit clients, and I work with the local sales teams.

Izabela: What are your plans for this visit to our office?

Maria: We usually have a planning meeting with the other sales teams when we visit. I give a presentation about my work, and they give an update on their activities.

Izabela: Well, I hope the meetings go well. Shall we?

Maria: Hi, Josie.

Josie: Hi.

Izabela: Maria., do you know Josie?

Maria: No, I don't.

Izabela: Josie, this is Maria.

Maria: Nice to meet you, Josie.

Josie: Good to meet you, Maria.

Maria: What do you do, Josie?

Josie: I'm an admin assistant.

Maria: And which department do you work in?

Josie: I work in office facilities, but I work with all the departments.

Maria: Oh, okay. And who manages that team?

Josie: Petro Russo. Do you know Petro?

Maria: No, I don't.

Josie: What about you, Maria? What do you do?

Maria: I am a sales manager with the Madrid team. I do research, analyze sales data, write reports, visit clients.

Josie: That's interesting. I also help the sales team here in London. I help the team process orders, and I make calls and write a lot of emails to the team.

Maria: You're obviously very busy then. Nice to meet you!
