#28*Teacher's Guide*SCRIPT: STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES

Orla: Nervous? Don't worry. Let me explain the process.

Orla: We'll start with the positive feedback. Then we'll move on to some areas for improvement. Is that okay with you?

Orla: So, you've been with us for six months. How do you feel it's gone so far?

Thiago: I think I'm doing well. I don't think there have been any problems, but I'd be interested to hear what you think.

Orla: Well, in general, we're pleased with your progress.

Thiago: Okay. I'm glad to hear that.

Orla: You're enthusiastic and you work hard. You're great with technology. That's always a benefit.

Orla: You're warm, and in general, you have good interpersonal skills. We saw how you tried to help Jasmine after the Miami conference issue. You were very supportive.

Thiago: That's good to know. Thanks.

Orla: And of course, you have an excellent sense of humor.

Orla: However, I have to point out some areas for development. It's important to give what we call corrective feedback to support you in your professional development.

Thiago: Everyone can improve, right?

Orla: Exactly.

Orla: So, there are a couple of areas for improvement like your time management skills. Shaun mentioned you were late finishing a report for him and you've missed other deadlines. How do you feel about this aspect of your work?

Thiago: I guess I am sometimes late.

Orla: You've been late a few times with your expenses claims, too. We think you could improve your admin skills more generally.

Thiago: Yeah. Okay. Admin's not my strong point.

Orla: Well, okay. But the reason we're concerned is that it creates problems for other people. The company could miss a deadline with a client. So, we really need you to respect all your deadlines from now on.

Orla: And please remember to submit your expenses claims on time. Now, we have the new app. There are no excuses.

Thiago: Sure, will do.
